

Marine Room Chef Ron Oliver Reveals New Food Chains

La Jolla, Calif. - (November 28, 2006) – Marine Room Chef de Cuisine, Ron Oliver’s artistic creativity extends beyond the kitchen, as evidenced by his line of food inspired jewelry, Food Chains. Each necklace designed by Chef Ron was inspired by an ingredient and a theme and comes paired with a favorite recipe.

The “Fruits of Love” design comes paired with a recipe for Latin Love Caramel and the “Chiles on the Fire” design is paired with a recipe for Shrimp in Thai Coconut Chile Sauce. The jewelry is composed of high quality glass, crystal and handmade beads and all pieces have been hand strung by Chef Ron. Last year, a portion of the proceeds went to Blue Sky Ranch - an organic food growing community in Lakeside, CA still recovering from the San Diego wild fires of October 2003. This year, a portion of the proceeds go to creative programs focused on teaching children the importance of healthy food choices and the connection between food and the earth.

Recently, the San Diego Museum of Art has begun to sell Chef Ron’s latest culinary inspired creations, Food Chains. They are also sold in On The Vine in Napa Valley, Food For Thought in San Juan Capistrano, and Eduard – A Taste of Europe in Chula Vista.

Ron Oliver received an Associate of Science in Culinary Arts degree from Johnson & Wales University. His constant research of foreign foods brings to the Marine Room a refined global style. Strictly dedicated to product sustainability and environmental responsibility his focus remains true to his passion of using only the freshest seasonal items available.

The Marine Room offers diners global cuisine rooted in the French classics. Its spectacular views, exemplary service and outstanding wine list make it San Diego’s premier dining destination.
